Safeguarding - National online safety

Expressing ourselves and interacting online can be fun - but only if it's safe for everyone. The social networking platform Amino offers opportunities to exchange views on countless hobbies and interests ... but its lack of age verification represents an obvious risk for younger users

With inappropriate content, the possibility of messages from strangers and rewards for repeated daily usage front and centre among the potential dangers that parents and carers should know about, this week's #WakeUpWednesday guide gives Amino the acid test.
