Prayer of the Week

Poems written by Year 6 Children - for Remembrance

Flowers moving side by side

Is what I can see in your eyes

You're stepping two by two

What are we going to do?

Flying high I will not see a shadow,

But when we land, we land with a straddle stride by stride

But not flying high

This time I went lower and lower

And ended up on your side

Remember when we used to say 'hi'

Because now it is my time to say 'bye'.

Jess R Y6

There are soldiers who died in the war

They now lie on the floor

They were taken away from their homes

And sacrificed themselves, to the last of their bones

As soldiers die , they become dust on the set

As the poppies are red, we must never forget.

To the flowers that bloom above the dead

And the torch that flames in poppy red

With holding high, the people who died

We may recall with heart and soul

We salute you all.

Some on high ground

Some on low

Some now in the sky, some still down below

As the poppies are red

May we never forget.
